Location of research/creative activities:

Brief description of the nature of the research/creative activity?

Counseling is a critical component of speech-language pathology and audiology. It serves as the basis for developing a strong therapeutic relationship with a client. More specifically, the ability to engage in effective, active listening skills is a core component of counseling. The purpose of this research is to survey speech-language pathologists and audiologists about their perception of their own listening abilities as well as the perception of the importance of varying listening skills.

Brief description of student responsibilities?

The student will be asked to assist in design of the research study, submit the IRB approval request, complete the literature review, collaborate on writing the methods protocol, analyze data to determine statistical significance, and provide a discussion of results. Student will also assist in submission of a proposal for conference presentation.

URCA Assistant positions are designed to provide students with research or creative activities experience. As such, there should be measurable, appropriate outcome goals. What exactly should your student(s) have learned by the end of this experience?

Yes
